NO STRIKE AS YET OF STREET RAILWAY EMPLOYEES

Men Are Willing To Arbitrate, But in So Doing, Must Have Justice.

WERE VOTING ALL NIGHT

Likely That President Mahon of Detroit, Mich., Will Come To District.

Contrary to general expectations the motorman and conductors of the Pittsburgh Railways company did not strike at midnight. The entire night was spent in voting by both the day and night forces at the meeting at Old City Hall in Pittsburgh, and while the vote is supposed to be overwhelmingly in favor of a strike, immediate action was not taken. Instead the matter was placed in the hands of the executive committee, who will submit the verdict to the company today in the hope of a compromise or arbitration.

The present scale agreement with the company expired at midnight, but by agreement on the part of the men was extended provisionally. No action will be taken on the street car employees, it is expected, until a conference is requested, the last hope of reaching an agreement. Both sides are standing firm, however, and neither seems in a hurry to compromise.

In case of a walkout on the part of the men, President W. D. Mahon of Detroit is expected to come to Pittsburgh and take charge of the strike in person. While the men seem determined, no threats were made and there is no real feeling in the air as to what will happen. President Mahon of the Pittsburgh Railways company, stated last night that the men had the last word from the company, which is a refusal to grant the advance passed.

MEETING FRIDAY ON SCHEDULE

Baseball Men Will Convene At Uniontown To Finish Up Business.

A meeting of the Pennsylvania and West Virginia Baseball League will be held at Uniontown Friday for the purpose of adopting the schedule. This has already been drafted, but there are a few dates to fix up yet. At this meeting the first assessment of $100 will be paid.

Charleroi is putting up a fight for Shortstop Dunn, who is also claimed by Clarksburg. The matter has been referred to Secretary Farrel of the National Commission, and it is probable that the matter will be decided at the Uniontown meeting. Charleroi hopes to get Dunn, but Clarksburg is also equally hopeful.

Manager Frank McHale of the Charleroi team took a trip out into Ohio yesterday, with a view of looking over some possible timber for his team. Dan Raley and Heise Elliott, two of the Charleroi outfielders, have reported and will be ready for the afternoon practice.

ANNIE OAKLEY IS HERE TODAY

Giving An Exhibition At Charleroi Gun Club Grounds.

IS A FAMOUS SHOOTER

Mrs. F. E. Butler, or Annie Oakley as she is better known among Gun Club circles, is here today and this afternoon is giving an exhibition of fancy shooting at the Charleroi Gun Club grounds, at Tenth street. A number of shooters were present from out of town, and the events of the day are proving decidedly interesting.

This morning, beginning at 11 o'clock, there was target shooting by the members of the Charleroi Gun Club and the visitors, in which much good marksmanship was shown. This was continued this afternoon for a short time. The principal event of the day is Miss Oakley's exhibition. She had all kinds of seemingly impossible shots. She shoots eggs, and fruit thrown in the air or almost any other article, that is not too small to be seen. Other crack shots who were present are James Lewis, H. E. Young and F. E. Butler, representatives of cartridge companies.

The shooting exhibition of Miss Oakley began at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Liliputians in Fairyland.

The staging for this operetta is now complete and Thursday night's production at the School Hall will pass with a smoothness and finish that would do justice to professionals.

Never before has an entertainment been offered to the public possessing such a peculiar fascination for both old and young as The Liliputians in Fairyland. It is a juvenile fairy spectacle in three acts, being musical and historical, giving two hours of enjoyment. The cast is composed of from 75 to 200 of our own young people, the boys representing Liliputians, impersonating our greatest National Heroes, also Sailors, with Wizards and Zulus from South African shores; the girls all glittering with spangles and robed in filmy gowns of lace, representing the dainty denizens of fairyland, also College Girls, Royal Guards, etc. $500.00 worth of special scenery.

Mrs. Jacob Hormell is spending the day in Coal Center.

INTEREST IN COMING MARATHON RACE WILL MEAN MANY ENTRIES

Charleroi Runners Getting Into Shape--Inquiries From All Along River For Information and Blanks.

Every town, village and hamlet in the valley, within the territorial limits of the Charleroi Marathon race, have runners who have sent applications for entry blanks, and when the start for the race is made, there will be lined up an aggregation that will be noticeable mainly for the numbers.

Charleroi runners are training at the ball ground, out the new road, and every place, where there is a chance to run. All are rounding into form, and achieving surprising results. This morning two youths from Riverview ran to Charleroi to secure entry blanks, and learn something of the race. This showed that much interest is being shown in the down river section.

A complete list of the entries to date will be published this week.

EIGHT PATIENTS NOW IN HOSPITAL

Additional Equipment Will Be Put In As Soon As Possible.

One week ago today the first patients were admitted to the Monessen General Hospital at Lockview in North Charleroi. Since then eight patients, all told, have been received, six of whom underwent surgical operations. It is only a matter of equipment now, the directors say, until the institution is filled.

Formerly the hospital has not yet been opened. The directors expect to do this later on. There were so many urgent cases that arrangements were made to receive and care for them before all the equipment was installed. Miss Miller of Greensburg was installed as head nurse at the

INTERESTING NEWS OF RIVER

Luzon Is Now At North Charleroi Yards To Be Repaired.

RIVER IS NOW RISING

After a three year's service as engineer on the United States launch Luzon, attached to the engineers' department, Fred A. Noll sent in his resignation yesterday to accept a position in the construction department of the Highland Automobile company. His successor on the Luzon has not been named. At present the Luzon is being repaired, painted and put in first class order at the Government boat yards at North Charleroi and when completed will be as good as new.

The rivers are raising at all points this morning as shown by the river reports sent to the weather bureau, and a shipping stage of 12 feet is looked for at Pittsburgh by night. Several of the larger boats will depart with heavy tows for lower ports. This will be the accumulation of just what coal has been loaded within the past week as the last shipment of 3,500,000 bushels practically cleaned up the Pittsburgh harbor.

The Steamer Helen White, Capt. Harry McGuire, arrived yesterday from Louisville with a fleet of empty boats and barges for the United Coal company and returned this morning with a tow of coal boats from the Fourth pool.

All the docks and boat yards are taxed to their utmost capacity at present, putting the returning empties in condition to be loaded. Many of these empty boats and barges which have made the trip to the extreme Southern ports, such as Cairo, St. Louis and New Orleans, are in a very bad shape, having been idle so long that they are practically out of commission and have to, in some cases, be almost rebuilt.

The majority of the coal and river men are now jubilant over the fact that they can now see a good boating stage in view, well on into May, especially the packet owners. The Pittsburgh and Cincinnati Packet Virginia, which was sunk at Wellsville, Ohio, last week, has been successfully raised and is expected in the Pittsburgh harbor this evening. The boat was not much damaged, and along with the cargo was covered by insurance.

COLLEGE GLEE CLUB TO BE HERE

Rules Broken In Favor of Charleroi--First Time Out of City.

Much interest is manifested in the concert by the Glee and Mandolin Club of the Pennsylvania College for Women of Pittsburgh to be given at the Coyle Theatre Friday evening, April 30. The concert is under the auspices of the Charleroi Juvenile court committee, and the tickets are meeting with ready sale.

In permitting the concert club to come to Charleroi the college made a great concession, as this will be the first time the aggregation ever filled an engagement outside of Pittsburgh. It was only the faculty's regard for Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Walton of North Charleroi, whose daughter, Miss Lomas, is a member of the club, that permission was given to fill the engagement. The club will be accompanied by the dean of the college and her assistant, and by two of the professors.

In addition to their musical proficiency, which is of the highest order, the club is composed of 41 pretty and attractive girls. Miss Helen Teeters of Monongahela and Miss Conley of Brownsville, are also members of the aggregation. Manager R. S. Coyle has very generously donated the use of the theatre for the concert, and the Juvenile Court committee feels much encouraged over the advance sale of the tickets.

Cheap Telephone Service.

The Clifton-Guthrie Telephone company has established a new record for cheap telephone service. The line extends from Clifton Mills, W. Va., to Shafter, Wharton township, Fayette county, and the cost of $3 per year to each subscriber was reduced to about 10 cents per month for the past year, when at the annual meeting a dividend of $1.76 was declared and paid to each subscriber. This reduced the actual cost to $1.24 a year for each subscriber.

Robbed Ellsworth Family After Driving Mother And Children Out.

CANNOT NOW BE LOCATED

Thought to Have Gone Towards Monongahela But This Is Not Proven.

Residents of Ellsworth are trying hard to catch an unknown negro who yesterday afternoon robbed the home of Adam Franklin at that place. Last night a posse was out trying to locate the man, but they were unable to find him. The police in the various towns have been notified, and it is thought that he cannot escape detection. The burglary happened at about 3 o'clock. The thief entered the house by the rear door, and at the point of a revolver forced Mrs. Franklin, before whom he suddenly appeared, outside with her children, while he ransacked the place.

He evidently knew the situation of the house, for he went directly to a lower bureau drawer, where money was kept, and upset its contents on the floor. Not finding any money there he went to another room, where he succeeded in getting $30 which had been hidden.

Mrs. Franklin and children hastened for aid when they were frightened out of the house, but were unable to meet any one for several minutes. When he did secure help and returned to the place, the man had left and there was no trace of him to be found. It was thought that he went towards Monongahela. The police of that place, however, could find no one of the description. Lynch law was threatened in case the robber could be found.

DELEGATES TO THE ASSEMBLY

Presbytery Meeting At California Closes After Busy Day.

At yesterday's session of the spring meeting of Washington presbytery of the Presbyterian church at California, commissioners to the general assembly which meets in Denver the latter part of next month were chosen. The Rev. Matthew Rutherford of the Third Presbyterian church, Washington, and the Rev. Grant E. Fisher, of the West Alexander church will represent the presbytery at this meeting.

A. E. Walker of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Burgettstown, and Daniel McConnell of the Florence Presbyterian church, were chosen lay commissioners.

There was nothing out of the ordinary taken up outside general routine business in the morning. In the afternoon, Rev. W. H. Barbour, of Pittsburgh gave a talk on Bible class work. Following this address presbytery took a final adjournment the place and time of the next meeting not being fixed.

Aliens Must Pay.

One of the good features of the new school code is that relating to the occupation tax of one dollar, which applies everywhere except in Philadelphia. This applies to all male residents over 21 years of age, and includes aliens. Provision is also made for collecting this tax from employers if it is not paid within a reasonable length of time. This will add much to the school revenues, not only in Charleroi, but all along the river, where thousands of aliens are employed in the mines and big industrial plants. One of the burdens that Charleroi has had to bear in the past has been the big outlay for school facilities to educate the children of aliens, who in many instances do not pay a cent of taxes, yet the compulsory school law requires their children to be educated at the expense of the taxpaying citizens.

Another provision that will help Charleroi, as well as all the country districts, is that the State appropriation is now based on the number of schools and number of children exclusively in each district. The number of taxables is not considered. As this prorata amount is increased, the new plan will give more money to those districts whose school population is abnormally large, as in the case of Charleroi. The new code is infinitely better than the old laws, and those who have studied it closely are urging the Governor to affix his signature to it.

Small Bonds.

It may not be generally known to the public that high-class railroad bonds in small denominations can now be purchased as readily as those in higher denominations. Many people invest in speculative stocks which have no value, because they are of the opinion that small high class bonds are not available.

For some time past several of the leading railroads of the country have been issuing hundred dollar bonds. These have found such a ready market that more of the big railroads are preparing to do the same. The hundred dollar bond is not confined exclusively to railroads, but several of the big industrial corporations have issued them, and some have even sold bonds in denominations of fifty dollars.

Recently small cities, boroughs and school districts have adopted the plan of issuing bonds in denominations of one hundred dollars which are readily sold in the communities where they are issued. The plan works well, and not only are the bondholders scattered, but the interests are also intensified and the civic and conservative spirit fostered. When large numbers of small investors are financially interested in industrial and municipal corporations, they naturally demand safe, conservative and economic management. Municipalities whose bonds are scattered out among the people will not be given over to graft and misrule.

Woman Suffrage.

While "Uncle Banks" Holland's bill for a constitutional amendment for woman's suffrage fell by the wayside, its introduction marked the beginning of a movement that is bound to prevail sooner or later. Woman suffrage would no doubt prevail in Pennsylvania if submitted to a popular vote, and the handful of Legislators who killed "Uncle Banks" Holland's bill do not by any means represent the sentiment of the Commonwealth on this question.

The great obstacle which the movement has to overcome is the prohibitory provisions of the various State constitutions. As the most of the States have this prohibition, it is within the province of a small handful of men to block all attempts at giving equal rights to women. This has been repeatedly demonstrated, and in each instance those Legislators who would not permit the voters to pass judgment upon the question constitute a small minority. Two of the States, however, have recently consented to submit the question to the voters.

South Dakota and Washington—and both these will vote soon upon constitutional amendments giving women the right of suffrage.

Two of the States in the Union—Wyoming and Utah—believe in equal rights, and have accorded women the right of suffrage. There is no reason why this right should not be universal, and the movement that is now being organized is destined to bear fruit.

Electric Sparks.

A letter from Spain may occasionally be one from King Alphonse, but more often it is from a would-be grafter.

The Uniontown Morning Herald tells us that their council has voted for a bond issue of $125,000, $35,000 more than the limit allowed, for the borough debt, and seems to be real angry. Now don't get mad, it serves them right.

An inquiry as to the price of sugar nowadays may be a fitting way to start an argument about the tariff revision.

The New York World daily prints some kind of a cartoon about some of the high officials of the United States, showing some of their actions, etc. Now that Teddy has gone, and they cannot get much of anything about him, the pictures seem to be lacking in vivacity.

All kinds of rich men are taking up holdings of coal interests in Western Pennsylvania. Well, that only goes to prove that this part of the Keystone State is a sort of bonanza after all.

The Washington Record tourists wouldn't make so much of a sensation everywhere if there were not so many handsome ones among them.

Another Trolley Project.

Notice has been given by a company of Washington and Pittsburgh men that a charter will be asked for, granting the right to construct and operate a street railway line from Washington to the Amwell township line to be known as the Washington-Marianna Street Railway company. It is planned to construct these tracks with a view of later extending them to Marianna.

TWO IMPORTANT

OFFICES TO FILL

Legislators Talked of as Available Candidates for Auditor General and State Treasurer

HARMONY IN REPUBLICAN PARTY

Not in a Quarter of a Century Has There Been Such Unity—Legislature Fully Redeems Pledges of Party Leaders—Tariff Measure to Be in Keeping With Republican Promises.

What proved beyond all question to be the sanest and most sensible session of the Pennsylvania Legislature held in a quarter of a century adjourned on April 15. The Republican managers or leaders of the state have just reason for real pride in the work of the session. When it began United States Senator Penrose and State Chairman W. R. Andrews joined in a pledge to their party that it would be short, regular in every detail and just beyond discrimination. In brief, fair play and a square deal was guaranteed to every interest in the state, and when the hour for closing was reached Democrats, Prohibitionists, Anti-Saloonists and Republicans joined in a jubilant chorus, declaring that every pledge made by the Republican leaders had been redeemed.

The work of the session has left the great Republican organization just where it belongs in the state. Its pledges have been fulfilled, the disturbing elements within its ranks have been pacified and the party as a whole is now enjoying harmony in a degree greater than that known for years. The policies and principles of the party are more firmly rooted in the Keystone State than for twenty-five years, and the party disturbers of other years being left without standing room for complaints, the party faces the future with assurance and confidence. All branches of the state government are now in the hands of the Republican party, just as they should be, and the indications are that in facing the Democrats in future contests there will be no guerilla warfare carried on in the rear of the majority party.

Within a comparatively short time the Republican party will hold its state convention to name candidates for auditor general and state treasurer. The indications are that these candidates will be named solely for their fitness for the public duties they are to discharge. Republicans from every section of the state will assemble at the coming convention and all will have a voice in selecting the candidates. Several names have already been suggested for the two important places. State Senators James of Luzerne, Crawford of Allegheny and Sisson of Erie have been discussed as possible candidates for auditor general. Representative E. R. Kiess of Lycoming county has also been referred to as a probable candidate for that office.

There are no avowed candidates for the nomination for state treasurer. However, the friends of Senator James of Luzerne have been working industriously to have Senator Crawford of Allegheny stand for this nomination. Senator Crawford is a banker of experience and capacity, and it is contended that he is best fitted for that position. In point of service Senator Crawford divides honors in the senate with Senator Sprout of Delaware. Each has served three four-year terms and it is hinted that Mr. Sprout is turning his wings so as to be able to fly into the governorship when the selection of a successor to Governor Stuart is made. Some weeks ago the Erie county delegation in the Legislature started a boom for Senator Sisson for governor. The boom was not without an earnest following, but just before the adjournment Mr. Sisson was visited by some of the senatorial leaders and proffered support for the auditor generalship should he enter that contest. Senator Crawford was also tendered support by several of the senatorial leaders, no matter what contest he might enter, and the Allegheny county delegation gave an elaborate banquet in his honor, presented him with a fine grandfather's clock and a chest of flat silver, and concluded by tendering him the unanimous support of the delegation for auditor general. Such an honor is a rarity in the Allegheny county delegation.

When United States Senator George T. Oliver announced his candidacy after the proposed retirement from the Senate of P. C. Knox was made known the Allegheny county delegation unanimously endorsed Mr. Oliver as Mr. Knox's successor. That was the first time in a quarter of a century in which the Allegheny county delegation had acted as a unit on anything. That harmonious effort seems to have grown into a habit with the Allegheny county Republicans, and their unanimous and generous endorsement of Senator Crawford for the Republican nomination for auditor general is certain to have consideration in the coming state convention. Incidentally the harmony habit has grown immensely upon the Republicans of the whole state and a harmonious state convention is certain to select candidates for state offices who will promote the harmony habit and will keep the Republican organization of the state where it has been and where

it should be—first in strength throughout the nation.

The United States Senate has been industriously at work for nearly two weeks and has so arranged matters that prompt action will be taken on the various confusing features of the new tariff bill as they arise. The Senate is known to be acting in harmony with President Taft on the tariff schedules and the bill to be finally enacted into law will be a reform measure in keeping with the pledges made by the Republicans in the last presidential campaign. The Democrats are hopelessly divided on the tariff question. Recently it has been made apparent that the Democratic party leaders in many of the Democratic states are high tariff men and many of these representatives in the Senate are disposed to help the Republicans in drafting a bill which will have little or no party bias, but will best serve the interests of the whole country. Such a bill is likely to come from the Senate when the work of that distinguished body is completed.

Already business conditions are improving, this improvement being based on the confidence that Republican policies will be liberally injected into the proposed tariff measure. The scars of the recent financial and commercial disturbances are disappearing. When the disturbances came business generally was suspended. There was no overproduction and as a consequence there is no overburdened market now. Business prosperity will come with a rush when it finally comes and there are distinct signs that that time will not be long delayed.

Pennsylvania's United States senators are having a large part to do in shaping tariff legislation. Senator Penrose is an accepted expert in tariff affairs and Mr. Oliver, being a large manufacturer, has had to do with the tariff all of his life. As a result the interests of Pennsylvania are safeguarded just now when those interests might be in jeopardy.

THE LUMINOUS HALO.

Psychic Explanation of an Oft Witnessed Phenomenon.

I was summoned one day to the Salt-petriere in Paris to see a woman who lay in a bed in the dark. She was a woman whose body, nerves, brain, had been teased and tortured for years in psychic and occult experiment. What mental perturbation was racking that brain I did not know, and the physicians at her bedside did not know. With clinched hands and teeth and eyes open wide the woman lay there. Her breathing was irregular and not deep. What we saw was this: A luminous halo of a vague orange hue that circled her head, even as in the old pictures of martyred saints you see the heads mooned with faded gold. This halo was fluctuant. It came and went. It was a light that flickered, grew, faded, formed itself anew.

A miracle, this aureoled head? If you want to call it that. Words are not of great importance. It was a miracle when it glowed around the head of a martyr tortured in the arena, so tortured by pain and fear that his dissociated psychic centers produced the phenomenon of the exteriorization of luminous energy.

Perhaps it were better to call it at once a miracle and a prescientific fact—a fact, that is, which is occult, but is in the way of becoming known.

I asked Dr. Ferre what he thought of this miracle.

"I have often seen it," he said. The field of his experiments was the mad house at Bicetre. There many neuro-pathic patients abide, and often in cases of severe headache or of religious ecstasy he has seen these fluctuant aureoles around the head.

"The rays are often twenty centimeters in extent, quite regular, forming a perfect aureole," he explained.

There is, then, a form of energy endowed with luminous properties emanating from the human body under certain conditions.—Vance Thompson in Hampton's Magazine.

Servant Girls In Defoe's Day.

It is evident from the comment below, found in "Gleanings After Time," that there is nothing new to be said on the servant question:

Defoe, castigating the extravagances of his time, felt foul of the downward spread of fashion. His theme was a familiar one—the leanness of a servant girl's attempt to imitate her mistress's costume.

"Her neat leathern shoes," Defoe's amusing indictment runs, "are now transformed into laced ones with high heels, her yarn stockings are turned into the woollen ones with silk clocks, and her high wooden pattens are kicked away for leathern clogs. She must have a hoop, too, as well as her mistress, and her poor linsey woolsey petticoat is changed into a good silk one, four or five yards wide at the least. Not to carry the description further. In short, plain country Joan is now turned into a fine city madam, can drink tea, take snuff and carry herself as high as the best."

Line Carrying Rockets.

The first line carrying rockets were invented in 1820 by an Englishman named Tregrouse and were soon after adopted by the Massachusetts Humane society for use at its stations, where they proved very successful, though today brass cannons are exclusively used for throwing lines to wrecks.

British East Africa as It Appears to the Hunter.

A brown village of thatched huts squatting in a trampled clearing of the forest and backed by thickset trees so closely faced with a living tapestry of woven green that the aching tropical sunlight can scarcely penetrate; slim, naked blacks slipping like shadows among the broad leaved bananas and rubber trees, starting furtively as your bearers file slowly past them; a lonely station far up or down river, where a haggard white man sits to receive tribute in the name of his trading company, marks an outpost of civilization in this jungle land. And through and under it all are the fevered glare of sunlight, the ceaseless drowsy whisper of the woods, the hot, dry scents of the parched earth, or, if the rains have come, all the land about will lie cloaked in steaming vapor, the sultry air as thick and humid as the air of a greenhouse at home. There you have the Congo as the white man knows it—the Congo or the jungle of Uganda. But all of this is only a part of what we have chosen to call and to picture as the dark continent.

For there, too, is the desert, widely different in all its aspects from Kongoland. On the slope of the rising ground that lifts from sea level at Mombasa and climbs to nearly 5,000 feet before it drops again to the lesser level of Victoria Nyanza is another vast waste as typical of Africa as this jungle country—the desert, as it is called, the plains of bush and grass. Six months of the year—from October to April—it lies half-drowned under tropical rains. From April to September only occasional showers fall, and the wide plateau grills under the staring sunlight, all following in the glare. Here upon these uplands is found the great variety of big game, the vast herds of wild things that have made and still make Africa the greatest shooting country in the world. This is British East Africa as the hunter knows it.—C. B. Taylor in Everybody's.

Rexall "93" HAIR TONIC

Our faith in the superior remedial qualities of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is so strong that we promise to return your money—without question or quibble—if it does not do what we claim it will.

Because it contains Resorcin, Beta Naphthol, Pilocarpin, Borax, Glycerin and Alcohol in perfect combination, Rexall "93" Hair Tonic provides the softening, cleansing, antiseptic, germicidal, stimulating and nourishing properties, so desirable and necessary for the successful treatment of scalp and hair troubles.

If used according to directions for a reasonable length of time, we are absolutely positive that it will thoroughly cleanse the scalp and hair, relieve irritation, eradicate dandruff, stimulate the hair follicles and papilla, revitalize and nourish the hair roots, stop falling hair, prevent baldness, promote hair growth and make the hair naturally soft and silky.

You must realize that we would not dare back up our claims with such a liberal offer unless we were positive that we can substantiate our statements in every particular, and the most skeptical person should at least be willing to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic at our risk.

I Love Shep, and Shep Loves Me

A Story of a Boy and a Dog.

By F. A. MITCHELL.

(Copyright, 1923, by American Press Association.)

I love to think of those happy days now far gone when we were boys. There was Abe and Sam and Ned and myself, all of whom lived within a mile of each other and were inseparable. While we were out of school we were together and when in school we were thinking of one another. When we were told to write compositions on subjects of our own choice we wrote about what we loved, most usually either a cat or a dog or a horse or a lamb or our swimming hole or the circus. We were only from six to nine, and our good teacher did not expect us to soar higher.

I remember one of the essays was upon the subject of a dog called Shepherd, the name being abbreviated to Shep. There was a sentence in it that I have never forgotten. I delight to nurse it in my heart as an epicure will roll rare wine on the tongue. It was this: "I know a dog by the name of Shep. I love Shep, and Shep loves me." Could there be anything more touching? Alas, how rare, how brief, is a real affection of a human being for an inferior animal! It can never be as real as lived blood.

We boys all lived along a road that led toward a city. An omnibus passed every morning to take people to town, and I can hear today the bugle notes that served for a signal ringing out clearly as Josh drove by, picking up the passengers. We all knew Josh, and many a free ride he gave us. One of the regular passengers used to stand at his gate every morning when the stage was late with his watch in his hand. Josh used to call him Colonel Minute, but his name was Colonel Ringgold, a veteran of the Mexican war. He had been shot all to pieces, being minus an eye, an ear, a leg and an arm. I do believe that the only spur that forced Josh to keep any sort of time was the thought of the colonel, watch in hand, standing at the gate, his single eye darting between it and the driver.

We boys were in great terror of Colonel Ringgold. We told each other awful stories about him which we invented ourselves, but which in time became real to us. One was that his house was fortified with an unlimited number of guns, pistols, sabers, and the like. It was averred by one boy that he had killed a man with his wooden leg. There is no one like a boy for making real things out of dreams, and all we had to do was to fancy these things, tell them to each other and they had happened.

Colonel Ringgold was the owner of the dog Shep. Shep was a collie, and the collie is a very intelligent dog. Shep stood, as I remember him, about two feet high, his color being a mixture of white and brown. During the night Shep was expected to be "in" by 8 o'clock, but during the day he was free to romp with us boys. I think he loved Ned best. That was because Ned loved him best, for Ned, you know, was the boy who wrote the composition mentioning Shep so affectionately.

We were all very careful that Shep should not get into trouble, first, because we loved him and, second, because we feared that his owner would blot us from the face of the earth if any harm came to the dog while in our company. Many a bigger dog we beat off when he was driving out our comrade to the wall.

One afternoon when we were all together teaching Shep to jump a rope we saw the colonel coming toward us, walking with the limp occasioned by his wooden leg. Every boy's heart sank into his boots. Had the whole United States army come down on us we could not have been more terrified. What caused us the chief alarm was the thought that he was coming to order us in future to leave Shep out of our fraternity. I can see the old man now making his way across a cornfield, trying to walk erect, his stern countenance making up for his dilapidated body. We would have all run, but we were paralyzed.

"What do you boys mean by stealing my dog?" he asked in his stentorian voice.

I scarcely distinguished what he said. I thought it something like: "Colum forward; guide right. Charge!" Every boy was too frightened to answer.

"Some one is keeping him nights," added the colonel. "Whoever is doing it shall be put in the—I mean deserves to be punished." Again there was silence, ended by a little trembling voice. It was Ned's.

"I'm the one who has been keeping Shep," he said. "I have looked him in, and he has come up and slept on my bed."

"You looked him in! Don't you know that he is not your dog?"

"Yes, sir, I know that."

"Well, don't you ever do such a thing again. I want my dog in the house nights. Eight o'clock is taps for him—8 o'clock precisely, not five minutes after 8, or five minutes before 8, but 8. As a punishment you," addressing Ned, "are forbidden to have anything to do with Shep in future. Do you understand?"

"Yes, sir," came a faint tremor.

"Why did you keep the dog?"

"Because I love him and he loves me."

The colonel stood a moment looking at the boy, something evidently dawning on his bachelor brain. Then he turned away.

The next morning he sent the dog to Ned to have and, to hold as his property forever.

THE MIRAGE.

Conditions That Make Possible This
Beautiful Illusion.

About that natural phenomenon, the
mirage, much mystery clung in days
of old, but science explains it as readily
as the rainbow.

The fata morgana of the strait of Messina and the specter of the Brock-
en were nothing more in sober reality
than mere mirage.

A mirage may occur at any place
where the denser stratum of air is
placed above the lighter stratum, thus
refracting the rays of light, the common surface of the two strata acting
as a mirror.

In looming mirages distant objects
show an extravagant increase in vertical height without alteration in breadth. Distant hummocks of ice are thus magnified into immense towers
and mountains, and a ship is sometimes
abnormally drawn out until it appears
twelve or thirteen times as high as it
is long. Rocks are seen drawn up to
ten or twelve times their proper
height. Houses as well as human beings and animals appear in like exaggerated shape.

Another form of mirage is when a
ship or some other object near the
water seems greatly elongated and a second inverted image meets it from above.

Sometimes the proper image of the
object is elevated far above the sea,
while the second image strangely appears inverted beneath it, the whole
surrounded by a sheet of sky which is
mirrored and repeated within it.

In 1822 in the arctic region Captain
Scoresby recognized by his inverted
image in the air his father's ship, the Fame, which afterward proved to be
seventeen miles beyond the visible horizon of his observation.

One August evening in 1806 Dr.
Vince saw from Ramsgate, at which
place only the tops of Dover castle
towers are usually visible, the whole
of the castle. It appeared as though
lifted up and bodily placed on the near
side of the intervening hill. So perfect was this illusion that the hill it-
self actually could not be seen through
the figure.

Some forms of mirage are lateral as
well as vertical, arising from unequal
density of two contiguous vertical bodies of air. Thus on Lake Geneva a boat has been seen double, the two
images some distance apart.

Persons have been duplicated in the same way. Any one on a hot day by placing his eye near to a heated wall
may see lateral mirages of objects at
a distance and nearly on a line with
the wall.

Mirages are very frequent on deserts or the large sandy plains which
abound in the southwestern states and territories. Many a pausing wagon train has pushed on in jorous haste
at the sight of a green grove or limpid
lake, only to be cruelly disappointed at
the fading away of the vision. Is it
any wonder that the natives and Indians regard the phenomenon as the
work of evil and tantalizing spirits?

Lake Ontario is famous for beautiful and wonderful mirages, during
which the opposite shore of the lake
is plainly visible from either side.—
Pearson's.

Court Dwarfs.

Until about little more than a century ago dwarfs were frequently kept
as court toys. Records of them might
be multiplied almost indefinitely.

Bebe, the dwarf of Stanislaus, king
of Poland, lived to be ninety years of
age, dying in Paris in 1835, and is variously described as having measured
thirty-five inches and twenty-three inches. Julia, niece of Augustus, had
two dwarfs, each twenty-eight inches
in height, and Henrietta Maria had
two whose joint height was seven feet
two inches. The Emperor Augustus had a dwarf named Lucius whose
height was two feet and weight seventeen pounds. The last court dwarf
in England was Coppern, who belonged to the Princess of Wales, mother of George III.

An Isle of Man Oath.

What is regarded as the quaintest
oath still in use is that taken by the high court judges in the Isle of Man
the terms of which are as follows: "By
this book and the contents thereof
and by the wonderful works that God
hath miraculously wrought in the
heaven above and the earth beneath in
six days and six nights I do swear
that I will, without respect of favor
or friendship, loss or gain, consanguin-
ity or affinity, envy or malice, execute
the laws of this Isle justly between
party and party as indifferently as the
herring backbone doth lie in the midst
of the fish. So help me God and the contents of this book."

Selfishness.

Jones worked so hard and denied
himself so much in order to pay his
life insurance that he had neither the
time nor the means to be sick, and he
outlived all the beneficiaries, who were
meanwhile engaged in the relatively
unhealthy business of lying back and
waiting for him to die. Moreover, in
thinking of the matter he became convinced that he had a good deal of fun,
after all—more fun, indeed, than most.
"I'm a terribly selfish fellow," ex-
claimed Jones guiltily.—Puck.

Politely Bounced.

A good example of the extremely
courteous in public correspondence
was the notice sent to Charles James Fox that he was no longer a member
of the government of George III. It
read thus: "His gracious majesty has
been pleased to issue a new commission in which your name does not appear."

To cast away a good friend is like
casting away one's life.—Aristotle.

PREPARING FOR HEARING

Appeal in Old Williamsport Bridge Matter Will Be Heard?

The county commissioners and Chief
Clerk H. R. Campbell of Washington
were in Pittsburgh yesterday in conference with the commissioners of Allegheny county relative to the suit
that comes up in Butler county next
week, the appeal from the award of
viewers in the condemnation proceedings of the old Williamsport bridge
at Monongahela. Both the Williamsport Bridge company and the two counties are appellants. The case
was transferred to a disinterested
county. The viewers awarded the bridge company $125,000, but the
bridge today is not worth anything to either county. It was condemned by
the government after being taken over
by the counties, ordered removed and
considering what it will cost to remove the structure, the old bridge is
practically worth nothing to either
Washington or Allegheny county.
The new bridge to take the place of
the old Williamsport bridge is now in
course of erection at Monongahela.

Should the award of the viewers be
sustained, or the bridge company
secure a verdict, it will have to be paid by Washington and Allegheny
counties equally. Although it is the intention to tear down the old bridge
within a few months, there have been
rumors of a probable injunction proceeding to restrain the counties from
tearing down the old bridge, and in
that event Monongahela will have two
river bridges.

The new bridge is farther down the river and there is opposition to the removal of the old bridge. It will mean a depreciation in the value of
certain properties at the ends of the
old bridge on either side of the river.

In the Presence of Death.

Some years ago a Swansea vessel
was caught in a terrible gale, says an English paper. The captain had his wife on board, and when the wind was
still rising he told her to go down below and sleep, for all was well. He remained on the bridge till the mate
came up and said: "We've done all we
can. Hadn't you better tell the chaps
to get out the boats?"

"Yes, yes, my lad, if you think so,"
said the captain, who knew the only
choice left was whether to go down
with the ship or in a small boat, which
couldn't live ten seconds in that sea.
The engineers came up with the news
that the fires were all out.

"Very well, my lads," said the captain quietly. "Save yourselves if you
can."

"Won't you fetch the wife on deck,
sir?" asked one of the men.

"No," was the calm reply. "Let her sleep, poor girl! I am going down to have a smoke." And, snuking by the bedside of his sleeping wife, he went
down with the ship.

A Queer Dish.

A great dish at Egyptian harem
feasts is that of a lamb roasted whole.
After the manner of a nest of Chinese
boxes, each smaller than the other, the
lamb is stuffed with a whole turkey,
the turkey with a chicken, the chicken
with a pigeon, the pigeon with a quail
and the quail with a becafo, the
smallest bird known, except a humming bird. The lamb is roasted over
a slow fire until it is almost ready to
fall to pieces.

AN INTERESTING SERMON

Rev. Giles at M. E. Church Pleases All Who Hear Him.

In spite of the rain a large audience
at the M. E. church last night listened
to a strong sermon by Rev. Giles on
"The Mighty Savior." The sermon
was a vivid presentation of Christ as
a mighty Savior from sin, and the
only one who can help us get away
from an evil past.

He spoke of sin as an awful fact in
all our lives, a fact that we cannot
deny.

He said: "We are not sinners
because Adam sinned, but because we
have ourselves chosen the same path.
Jesus can save the vilest soul on earth
if that soul will but come and give
him a chance."

After calling attention to the many
young men loafing on the streets and
describing his own conversion when a
young man, he pleaded with the young
men present to give their lives to God
that they might enjoy the largest
possible amount of happiness and be
of the largest service to the world.

The sermon closed with a very realistic word picture of the coming of
death to the unsaved man and to the one who has found Christ as his Savior.

A large number of persons came to
the altar when the usual invitation
was given, some to pray for others
and some to pray for themselves.

PUBLIC URGED TO HELP

Efforts to Raise Funds for Char- leroi Baseball Team is Not Without Effect.

The Charleroi Athletic Association
will have a good ball team in the field
this season. They have in Manager
Frank MacHale one of the best baseball managers in the country. The association will make an effort to have
a fine team this year for the benefit
of the public in Charleroi and surrounding towns. The many American sport is enjoyed by everyone and
should be encouraged by the citizens
of Charleroi. The association is in need of some help from the public.
The Marathon race will no doubt net
some returns from the admission that
will be charged to see the race on the Ball Park grounds.

The Buick motor car tickets will be pushed, and if they are all disposed
of will clear up the debt of the association, which will insure a team for
the next two or three years. The Buick motor car is a $1,250.22 horse
power car, that will seat five persons,
and run at least 40 miles per hour.
It is one of the wonders of the age in
the motor car line. By calling at the auto garage of A. D. Spencer, corner
of McKean avenue and Third street,

NO STRIKE AS YET OF STREET RAILWAY EMPLOYEES

Men Are Willing To Arbitrate, But in So Doing, Must Have Justice.

WERE VOTING ALL NIGHT

Likely That President Mahon of Detroit, Mich., Will Come To District.

Contrary to general expectations the motorman and conductors of the Pittsburgh Railways company did not strike at midnight. The entire night was spent in voting by both the day and night forces at the meeting at Old City Hall in Pittsburgh, and while the vote is supposed to be overwhelmingly in favor of a strike, immediate action was not taken. Instead the matter was placed in the hands of the executive committee, who will submit the verdict to the company today in the hope of a compromise or arbitration.

The present scale agreement with the company expired at midnight, but by agreement on the part of the men the extension was granted. No action will be taken on the street car employees, it is expected, until a conference is requested. The last hope of reaching an agreement, both sides are standing firm, however, and neither seems in a mood for compromise.

In case of a walkout on the part of the men, President W. D. Mahon of Detroit is expected to come to Pittsburgh and take charge of the strike in person. While the men seem determined, no threats were made and there is no real feeling in the air as is usual on such occasions. President Mahon of the Pittsburgh Railways company, stated last night that the men had the last word from the company, which is a refusal to grant the advance passed.

MEETING FRIDAY ON SCHEDULE

Baseball Men Will Convene At Uniontown To Finish Up Business.

A meeting of the Pennsylvania and West Virginia Baseball League will be held at Uniontown Friday for the purpose of adopting the schedule. This has already been drafted, but there are a few dates to fix up yet. At this meeting the first assessment of $100 will be paid.

Charleroi is putting up a fight for Shortstop Dunn, who is also claimed by Clarksburg. The matter has been referred to Secretary Farrel of the National Commission, and it is probable that the matter will be decided at the Uniontown meeting. Charleroi hopes to get Dunn, but Clarksburg is also equally hopeful.

Manager Frank McHale of the Charleroi team took a trip out into Ohio yesterday, with a view of looking over some possible timber for his team. Dan Raley and Heise Elliott, two of the Charleroi outfielders, have reported and will be ready for the afternoon practice.

Building Boom On At Monessen

Houses Are Much In Demand and Real Estate Men Unable to Supply Enough.

There is a building boom on at Monessen. This comes from the fact that houses are in such demand that the real estate men are unable to furnish enough to keep up with the supply. This is a good business sign and betokens more prosperous conditions that have been known in this valley for sometime.

MUCH MIXED UP HORSE CASE

Man Sells It Who Didn't Own It And Third Party Is Arrested.

A wholesale tangle was the reason for Joseph Higgins being sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs or undergo 30 days in jail. The hearing was before Justice of the Peace Rice on charge of cruelty to animals. The charge was neglect of a horse, it being stated that he had left the animal in a blacksmith shop here from Monday at 1 o'clock until yesterday morning at 8:30. Information was made by Humane Agent Gelder. Higgins has not paid the fine and it is likely that he will be taken to jail today. The horse is supposed to belong to one Stanley Henderson.

The latter bought the animal with another one from Desire Herman for $15. The horse at the time did not belong to Herman, but his sister, Mrs. Able. It is said that but one payment had been made to Herman by Henderson of $5, and neither this amount nor the $15 has been turned over to the real owner, Mrs. Able, and she claims the price of the horse from her brother Herman. If he does not pay today suit will be brought by Mrs. Able to secure the amount. In the meantime Higgins will be paying the penalty for the mistreatment of another person's horse. Now the question is, who owns the animal?

MONONGAHELA PAVING

Planned to Issue Bonds of $60,000 For City Improvements.

The Monongahela council at a meeting last night fixed the tax levy for the coming year at 10 mills, $1.2 for general expenses and 1.2 for the redemption fund. This was the same as last year.

It was voted to float a bond issue of $60,000, the money to be used for paving purposes, and to buy the old school building in the Second ward, to fit up for a city building.

ANNIE OAKLEY IS HERE TODAY

Giving An Exhibition At Charleroi Gun Club Grounds.

IS A FAMOUS SHOOTER

Mrs. F. E. Butler, or Annie Oakley as she is better known among Gun Club circles, is here today and this afternoon is giving an exhibition of target shooting at the Charleroi Gun Club grounds, at Tenth street. A number of shooters were present from out of town, and the events of the day are proving decidedly interesting. This morning, beginning at 11 o'clock, there was target shooting by the members of the Charleroi Gun Club and the visitors, in which much good marksmanship was shown. This was continued this afternoon for a short time. The principal event of the day is Miss Oakley's exhibition. She had all kinds of seemingly impossible shots. She shoots eggs, and fruit thrown in the air or almost any other article, that is not too small to be seen. Other crack shots who were present are James Lewis, H. E. Young and F. E. Butler, representatives of cartridge companies. The shooting exhibition of Miss Oakley began at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Liliputians in Fairyland.

The staging for this operetta is now complete and Thursday night's production at the School Hall will pass with a smoothness and finish that would do justice to professionals.

Never before has an entertainment been offered to the public possessing such a peculiar fascination for both old and young as The Liliputians in Fairyland. It is a juvenile fairy spectacle in three acts, being national and historical, giving two hours of enjoyment. The cast is composed of from 75 to 200 of our own young people, the boys representing Liliputians, impersonating our greatest National Heroes, also Sailors, with Wizards and Zulus from South African shores; the girls all glittering with spangles and robed in filmy gowns of lace, representing the dainty denizens of fairyland, also College Girls, Royal Guards, etc. $500.00 worth of special scenery.

EIGHT PATIENTS NOW IN HOSPITAL

Additional Equipment Will Be Put In As Soon As Possible.

One week ago today the first patients were admitted to the Monessen General Hospital at Lockview in North Charleroi. Since then eight patients, all told, have been received, six of whom underwent surgical operations. It is only a matter of equipment now, the directors say, until the hospital is ready.

Formally the hospital has not yet been opened. The directors expect to do this later on. There were so many urgent cases that arrangements were made to receive and care for them before all the equipment was installed. Miss Miller of Greensburg was installed as head nurse at the

Luzon Is Now At North Charleroi Yards To Be Repaired.

RIVER IS NOW RISING

After a three year's service as engineer on the United States launch Luzon, attached to the engineers' department at North Charleroi, the boat is being repaired, painted and put in first class order at the Government boat yards at North Charleroi and when completed will be as good as new. The rivers are raising at all points this morning as shown by the river reports sent to the weather bureau, and a shipping stage of 12 feet is looked for at Pittsburg by night. Several of the larger boats will depart with heavy tows for lower ports. This will be the accumulation of just what coal has been loaded within the past week as the last shipment of 8,500,000 bushels practically cleaned up the Pittsburg harbor.

The Steamer Helen White, Capt. Harry McGuire, arrived yesterday from Louisville with a fleet of empty boats and barges for the United Coal company and returned this morning with a tow of coal boats from the Fourth pool. All the docks and boat yards are taxed to their utmost capacity at present, putting the returning empties in condition to be loaded. Many of these empty boats and barges which have made the trip to the extreme Southern ports, such as Cairo, St. Louis and New Orleans, are in a very bad shape, having been idle so long that they are practically out of commission and have to, in some cases, be almost rebuilt.

The majority of the coal and river men are now jubilant over the fact that they can now see a good boating stage in view, well on into May, especially the packet owners. The Pittsburgh and Cincinnati Packet Virginia, which was sunk at Wellsville, Ohio, last week, has been successfully raised and is expected in the Pittsburgh harbor this evening. The boat was not much damaged, and along with the cargo was, covered by insurance.

COLLEGE GLEE CLUB TO BE HERE

Rules Broken In Favor of Charleroi—First Time Out of City.

Much interest is manifested in the concert by the Glee and Mandolin Club of the Pennsylvania College for Women of Pittsburg to be given at the Coyle Theatre Friday evening, April 30. The concert is under the auspices of the Charleroi Juvenile court committee, and the tickets are meeting with ready sale.

In permitting the concert club to come to Charleroi the college made a great concession, as this will be the first time the aggregation ever filled an engagement outside of Pittsburg. It was only the faculty's regard for Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Walton of North Charleroi, whose daughter, Miss Lomes, is a member of the club, that permission was given to fill the engagement. The club will be accompanied by the dean of the college and her assistant, and by two of the professors.

In addition to their musical proficiency, which is of the highest order, the club is composed of 41 pretty and attractive girls. Miss Helen Teeters of Monongahela and Miss Conley of Brownsville, are also members of the aggregation. Manager R. S. Coyle has very generously donated the use of the theatre for the concert, and the Juvenile Court committee feels much encouraged over the advance sale of the tickets.

Cheap Telephone Service.

The Clifton-Guthrie Telephone company has established a new record for cheap telephone service. The line extends from Clifton Mills, W. Va., to Shaffer, Wharton township, Fayette county, and the cost of $3 per year to each subscriber was reduced to about 10 cents per month for the past year, when at the annual meeting a dividend of $1.76 was declared and paid to each subscriber. This reduced the actual cost to $1.24 a year for each subscriber.

Robbed Ellsworth Family After Driving Mother And Children Out.

CANNOT NOW BE LOCATED

Thought to Have Gone Towards Monongahela But This Is Not Proven.

Residents of Ellsworth are trying hard to catch an unknown negro who yesterday afternoon robbed the home of Adam Franklin at that place. Last night a posse was out trying to locate the man, but they were unable to find him. The police in the various towns have been notified, and it is thought that he cannot escape detection. The burglary happened at about 3 o'clock. The thief entered the house by the rear door, and at the point of a revolver forced Mrs. Franklin, before whom he suddenly appeared, outside with her children, while he ransacked the place.

He evidently knew the situation of the house, for he went directly to a lower bureau drawer, where money was kept, and upset its contents on the floor. Not finding any money there he went to another room, where he succeeded in getting $30 which had been hidden.

Mrs. Franklin and children hastened for aid when they were frightened out of the house, but were unable to meet any one for several minutes. When he did secure help and returned to the place, the man had left and there was no trace of him to be found. It was thought that he went towards Monongahela. The police of that place however could find no one of the description. Lynch law was threatened in case the robber could be found.

DELEGATES TO THE ASSEMBLY

Presbytery Meeting At California Closes After Busy Day.

At yesterday's session of the spring meeting of Washington presbytery of the Presbyterian church at California commissioners to the general assembly which meets in Denver the latter part of next month were chosen. The Rev. Matthew Rutherford of the Third Presbyterian church, Washington, and the Rev. Grant E. Fisher, of the West Alexander church will represent the presbytery at this meeting.

A. E. Walker of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Burgetstown, and Daniel McConnell of the Florence Presbyterian church, were chosen lay commissioners.

There was nothing out of the ordinary taken up outside general routine business in the morning. In the afternoon, Rev. W. H. Barbour, of Pittsburg gave a talk on Bible class work. Following this address presbytery took a final adjournment the place and time of the next meeting not being fixed.

Aliens Must Pay.

One of the good features of the new school code is that relating to the occupation tax of one dollar, which applies everywhere except in Philadelphia. This applies to all male residents over 21 years of age, and includes aliens. Provision is also made for collecting this tax from employers if it is not paid within a reasonable length of time. This will add much to the school revenues, not only in Charleroi, but all along the river, where thousands of aliens are employed in the mines and big industrial plants. One of the burdens that Charleroi has had to bear in the past has been the big outlay for school facilities to educate the children of aliens, who in many instances do not pay a cent of taxes, yet the compulsory school law requires their children to be educated at the expense of the taxpaying citizens.

Another provision that will help Charleroi, as well as all the country districts, is that the State appropriation is now based on the number of schools and number of children exclusively in each district. The number of taxables is not considered. As this prorata amount is increased, the new plan will give more money to those districts whose school population is abnormally large, as in the case of Charleroi. The new code is infinitely better than the old laws, and those who have studied it closely are urging the Governor to affix his signature to it.

Small Bonds.

It may not be generally known to the public that high-class railroad bonds in small denominations can now be purchased as readily as those in higher denominations. Many people invest in speculative stocks which have no value, because they are of the opinion that small high class bonds are not available.

For some time past several of the been issuing hundred dollar bonds. These have found such a ready market that more of the big railroads are preparing to do the same. The hundred dollar bond is not confined exclusively to railroads, but several of the big industrial corporations have issued them, and some have even sold bonds in denominations of fifty dollars. Recently small cities, boroughs and school districts have adopted the plan of issuing bonds in denominations of one hundred dollars which are readily sold in the communities where they are issued. The plan works well, and not only are the bondholders scattered, but the interests are also intensified and the civic and conservative spirit fostered. When large numbers of small investors are financially interested in industrial and municipal corporations, they naturally demand safe, conservative and economic management. Municipalities whose bonds are scattered out among the people will not be given over to graft and misrule.

Woman Suffrage.

While "Uncle Banks" Holland's bill for a constitutional amendment for women's suffrage fell by the wayside, its introduction marked the beginning of a movement that is bound to prevail sooner or later. Woman suffrage would no doubt prevail in Pennsylvania if submitted to a popular vote, and the handful of Legislators who killed "Uncle Banks" Holland's bill do not by any means represent the sentiment of the Commonwealth on this question.

The great obstacle which the movement has to overcome is the prohibitory provisions of the various State constitutions. As the most of the States have this prohibition, it is within the province of a small handful of men to block all attempts at giving equal rights to women. This has been repeatedly demonstrated, and in each instance those Legislators who would not permit the voters to pass judgment upon the question constitute a small minority. Two of the States, however, have recently consented to submit the question to the voters—South Dakota and Washington—and both these will vote soon upon constitutional amendments giving women the right of suffrage.

Two of the States in the Union—Wyoming and Utah—believe in equal rights, and have accorded women the right of suffrage. There is no reason why this right should not be universal, and the movement that is now being organized is destined to bear fruit.

Electric Sparks.

A letter from Spain may occasionally be one from King Alfonso, but more often it is from a would-be grafter.

The Uniontown Morning Herald tells us that their council has voted for a bond issue of $125,000, $36,000 more than the limit allowed for the borough debt, and seems to be real angry. Now don't get mad, it serves them right.

An inquiry as to the price of sugar nowadays may be a fitting way to start an argument about the tariff revision.

The New York World daily prints some kind of a cartoon about some of the high officials of the United States, showing some of their actions, etc. Now that Teddy has gone, and they cannot get much of anything about him, the pictures seem to be lacking in vivacity.

All kinds of rich men are taking up holdings of coal interests in Western Pennsylvania. Well, that only goes to prove that this part of the Keystone State is a sort of bonanza after all.

The Washington Record tourists wouldn't make so much of a sensation everywhere if there were not so many handsome ones among them.

Another Trolley Project.

Notice has been given by a company of Washington and Pittsburgh men that a charter will be asked for, granting the right to construct and operate a street railway line from Washington to the Amwell township line to be known as the Washington-Marianna Street Railway company. It is planned to construct these tracks with a view of later extending them to Marianna.

TWO IMPORTANT OFFICES TO FILL

Legislators Talked of as Available Candidates for Auditor General and State Treasurer

HARMONY IN REPUBLICAN PARTY

Not in a Quarter of a Century Has There Been Such Unity—Legislature Fully Redeems Pledges of Party Leaders—Tariff Measure to Be in Keeping With Republican Promises.

What proved beyond all question to be the sanest and most sensible session of the Pennsylvania Legislature held in a quarter of a century adjourned on April 15. The Republican managers or leaders of the state have kept every promise made in the work of the session. When it began United States Senator Penrose and State Chairman W. R. Andrews joined in a pledge to their party that it would be short, regular in every detail and just beyond discrimination. In brief, fair play and a square deal was guaranteed to every interest in the state, and when the hour for closing was reached Democrats, Prohibitionists, Anti-Saloonists and Republicans joined in a jubilant chorus, declaring that every pledge made by the Republican leaders had been redeemed.

The work of the session has left the great Republican organization just where it belongs in the state. Its pledges have been fulfilled, the disturbing elements within its ranks have been pacified and the party as a whole is now enjoying harmony in a degree greater than that known for years. The policies and principles of the party are more firmly rooted in the Keystone State than for twenty-five years, and the party disturbers of other years being left without standing room for complaints, the party faces the future with assurance and confidence. All branches of the state government are now in the hands of the Republican party, just as they should be, and the indications are that in facing the Democrats in future contests there will be no guerilla warfare carried on in the rear of the majority party.

Within a comparatively short time the Republican party will hold its state convention to name candidates for auditor general and state treasurer. The indications are that these candidates will be named solely for their fitness for the public duties they are to discharge. Republicans from every section of the state will assemble at the coming convention and all will have a voice in selecting the candidates. Several names have already been suggested for the two important places. State Senators James of Luzerne, Crawford of Allegheny and Sisson of Erie have been discussed as possible candidates for auditor general. Representative E. R. Kiess of Lycoming county has also been referred to as a probable candidate for that office.

There are no avowed candidates for the nomination for state treasurer. However, the friends of Senator James of Luzerne have been working industriously to have Senator Crawford of Allegheny stand for this nomination. Senator Crawford is a banker of experience and capacity, and it is contended that he is best fitted for that position. In point of service Senator Crawford divides honors in the senate with Senator Sprout of Delaware. Each has served three four-year terms and it is hinted that Mr. Sprout is trimming his wings so as to be able to fly into the governorship when the selection of a successor to Governor Stuart is made. Some weeks ago the Erie county delegation in the Legislature started a boom for Senator Sisson for governor. The boom was not without an earnest following, but just before the adjournment Mr. Sisson was visited by some of the senatorial leaders and proffered support for the auditor generalship should he enter that contest. Senator Crawford was also tendered support by several of the senatorial leaders, no matter what contest he might enter, and the Allegheny county delegation gave an elaborate banquet in his honor, presented him with a fine grandfather's clock and a chest of flat silver, and concluded by tendering him the unanimous support of the delegation for auditor general. Such an honor is a rarity in the Allegheny county delegation.

When United States Senator George T. Oliver announced his candidacy after the proposed retirement from the Senate of P. C. Knox was made known the Allegheny county delegation unanimously endorsed Mr. Oliver as Mr. Knox's successor. That was the first time in a quarter of a century in which the Allegheny county delegation had acted as a unit on anything. That harmonious effort seems to have grown into a habit with the Allegheny county Republicans, and their unanimous and generous endorsement of Senator Crawford for the Republican nomination for auditor general is certain to have consideration in the coming state convention. Incidentally the harmony habit has grown immensely upon the Republicans of the whole state and a harmonious state convention is certain to select candidates for state offices who will promote the harmony habit and will keep the Republican organization of the state where it has been and where

The United States Senate has been industriously at work for nearly two weeks and has so arranged matters that prompt action will be taken on the various tariff measures of the new tariff bill as they arise. The Senate is known to be acting in harmony with President Taft on the tariff schedules and the bill to be finally enacted into law will be a reform measure in keeping with the pledges made by the Republicans in the last presidential campaign. The Democrats are hopelessly divided on the tariff question. Recently it has been made apparent that the Democratic party leaders in many of the Democratic states are high tariff men and many of these representatives in the Senate are disposed to help the Republicans in drafting a bill which will have little or no party bias, but will best guard the interests of the whole country. Such a bill is likely to come from the Senate when the work of that distinguished body is completed.

Already business conditions are improving, this improvement being based on the confidence that Republican policies will be liberally injected into the proposed tariff measure. The scars of the recent financial and commercial disturbances are disappearing. When the disturbances came business generally was suspended. There was no overproduction and as a consequence there is no overburdened market now. Business prosperity will come with a rush when it finally comes and there are distinct signs that that time will not be long delayed.

Pennsylvania's United States senators are having a large part to do in shaping tariff legislation. Senator Penrose is an accepted expert in tariff affairs and Mr. Oliver, being a large manufacturer, has had to do with the tariff all of his life. As a result the interests of Pennsylvania are safeguarded just now when these interests might be in jeopardy.

THE LUMINOUS HALO.

Psychic Explanation of an Oft Witnessed Phenomenon.

I was summoned one day to the Salt-petriere in Paris to see a woman who lay in a bed in the dark. She was a woman whose body, nerves, brain, had been reared and nurtured for years in psychic and occult experiment. What mental perturbation was making that brain I did not know, and the physicians at her bedside did not know. With clinched hands and teeth and eyes open wide the woman lay there. Her breathing was irregular and not deep. What we saw was this: A luminous halo of a vague orange hue that circled her head, even as in the old pictures of martyred saints you see the heads encircled with faded gold. This halo was fluctuant. It came and went. It was a light that flickered, grew, faded, formed itself anew.

A miracle, this unvoiced head? If you want to call it that. Words are not of great importance. It was a miracle when it glowed around the head of a martyr tortured in the arena, so tortured by pain and fear that his dissociated psychic centers produced the phenomenon of the exteriorization of luminous energy.

Perhaps it were better to call it at once a miracle and a presidential fact—a fact, that is, which is occult, but is in the way of becoming known.

I asked Dr. Frere what he thought of this miracle.

"I have often seen it," he said. The field of his experiments was the madhouse at Bicetre. There many neurotic patients abide, and often in rages of severe headache or of religious ecstasy he has seen these fluctuant aureoles around the head.

"The rays are often twenty centimeters in extent, quite regular, forming a perfect aureole," he explained.

There is, then, a form of energy endowed with luminous properties emanating from the human body under certain conditions—Vance Thompson in Hampton's Magazine.

Servant Girls in Defoe's Day.

It is evident from the comment below, found in "Gleanings After Time," that there is nothing new to be said on the servant question:

Defoe, castigating the extravagances of his time, fell foul of the downward spread of fashion. His theme was a familiar one—the heinousness of a servant girl's attempt to imitate her mistress' costume.

"Her neat leathern shoes," Defoe's amusing indictment runs, "are now transformed into laced ones with high heels, her yarn stockings are turned into the woolen ones with silk clocks, and her high wooden pattens are kicked away for leathern clogs. She must have a hoop, too, as well as her mistress, and her poor linsy woolsey petticoat is changed into a good silk one, four or five yards wide at the least. Not to carry the description further, in short, plain country Joan is now turned into a fine city maids, can drink tea, take snuff and carry herself as high as the best."

Line Carrying Rockets.

The first line carrying rockets were invented in 1820 by an Englishman named Trengrouse and were soon after adopted by the Massachusetts Humane society for use at its stations, where they proved very successful, though today brass cannons are exclusively used for throwing lines to wrecks.

"93" HAIR TONIC

Our faith in the superior remedial qualities of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is so strong that we promise to return your money—without question or quibble—if it does not do what we claim it will.

Because it contains Resorcin, Beta Naphthol, Pilocarbin, Borax, Glycerin and Alcohol in perfect combination, Rexall "93" Hair Tonic provides the softening, cleansing, antiseptic, germicidal, stimulating and nourishing properties, so desirable and necessary for the successful treatment of scalp and hair troubles.

If used according to directions for a reasonable length of time, we are absolutely positive that it will thoroughly cleanse the scalp and hair, relieve irritation, eradicate dandruff, stimulate the hair follicles and papilla, revitalize and nourish the hair roots, stop falling hair, prevent baldness, promote hair growth and make the hair naturally soft and silky.

You must realize that we would not dare back up our claims with such a liberal offer unless we were positive that we can substantiate our statements in every particular, and the most skeptical person should at least be willing to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic at our risk.

THE LAND OF BIG GAME.

British East Africa as It Appears to the Hunter.

A brown village of thatched huts, surrounded by a thick forest of the forest and backed by thickset trees so closely laced with a living tapestry of woven green that the achting tropic sunlight can scarcely penetrate; slim, naked blacks slipping like shadows among the broad leaved bananas and rubber trees, staring furtively as your bearers file slowly past them; a lonely station far up of down river, where a haggard white man sits to receive tribute in the name of his trading company, marks an outpost of civilization in this jungle land. And through and under it all are the fevered glare of sunlight, the ceaseless drowsy whisper of the woods, the hot, dry scents of the parched earth, or, if the rains have come, all the land about will lie cloaked in steaming vapor, the sultry air as thick and humid as the air of a greenhouse at home. There you have the Kongo as the white man knows it—the Kongo or the jungle of Uganda. But all of this is only a part of what we have chosen to call and to picture as the dark continent.

For there, too, is the desert, widely different to all the foregoing scenes. On the slope of the rising ground that lifts from sea level at Mombasa and climbs to nearly 8,000 feet before it drops again to the lesser level of Victoria Nyanza is another vast waste as typical of Africa as this jungle country—the desert, as it is called, the plains of bush and grass. Six months of the year—from October to April—it lies bathed under tropic rains. From April to September only occasional showers fall, and the wide plateau cracks under the scorching sunlight, all following in the glare. Here upon these uplands is found the great variety of big game, the vast herds of wild things that have made and still make Africa the greatest shooting country in the world. This is British East Africa as the hunter knows it.—C. B. Taylor in Everybody's.

"I am sorry, madam, but if the cows will drink from the brook instead of from the trough I cannot help it."—Harper's Weekly.

I Love Shep, and Shep Loves Me

A Story of a Boy and a Dog.

By F. A. MITCHELL.

I love to think of those happy days now far ago when we were boys. There was Abe and Sam and Ned and myself, all of whom lived within a mile of each other and were inseparable. While we were out of school we were together and when in school we were thinking of one another. When we were told to write compositions on subjects of our own choice we wrote about what we loved, most usually either a cat or a dog or a horse or a lamb or our swimming hole or the circus. We were only from six to nine, and our good teacher did not expect us to soar higher.

I remember one of the essays was upon the subject of a dog called Shep-herd, the name being abbreviated to Shep. There was a sentence in it that I have never forgotten. I delight to nurse it in my heart as an epicure will roll rare wine on the tongue. It was this: "I know a dog for the name of sheep. I love Shep, and Shep loves me." Could there be anything more touching? Alas, how rare, how brief, is a real affection of a human being for an inferior animal! It can never be as real as in childhood.

We boys all lived along a road that led toward a city. An omnibus passed every morning to take people to town, and I can hear today the bugle notes that served for a signal ringing out clearly as Josh drove by, picking up the passengers. We all knew Josh, and many a free ride he gave us. One of the regular passengers used to stand at his gate every morning when the stage was late with his watch in his hand. Josh used to call him Colonel Ringgold, a veteran of the Mexican war. He had been shot all to pieces, being minus an eye, an ear, a leg and an arm. I do believe that the only spur that forced Josh to keep any sort of time was the thought of the colonel, who in hand, standing at the gate, his single eye darting between it and the driver.

We boys were in great terror of Colonel Ringgold. We told each other awful stories about him which we invented ourselves, but which in time became real to us. One was that his house was fortified with an unlimited number of guns, pistols, sabres, and the like. It was asserted by one boy that he had killed a man with his wooden leg. There is no one like a boy for making real things out of dreams, and all we had to do was to fancy these things, tell them to each other and they had happened.

Colonel Ringgold was the owner of the dog Shep. Shep was a collie, and the collie is a very intelligent dog. Shep stood, as I remember him, about two feet high, his color being a mixture of white and brown. During the night Shep was expected to "sit" by 8 o'clock, but during the day he was free to romp with us boys. I think he loved Ned best. That was because Ned loved him best, for Ned, you know, was the boy who wrote the composition mentioning Shep so affectionately.

We were all very careful that Shep should not get into trouble, first, because we loved him and, second, because we feared that his owner would blot us from the face of the earth if any harm came to the dog while in our company. Many a bigger dog we beat off when he was drifting our way, made to the wall.

One afternoon when we were all together teaching Shep to jump a rope we saw the colonel coming toward us, walking with the limp occasioned by his wooden leg. Every boy's heart sank into his boots. Had the whole United States army come down on us we could not have been more terrified.

What caused us the chief alarm was the thought that he was coming to order us in future to leave Shep out of our fraternity. I can see the old man now unking his way across a cornfield, trying to walk erect, his stern countenance making up for his disfigured body. We would have all run, but we were paralyzed.

"What do you boys mean by stealing my dog?" he asked in his stentorian voice.

"I scarcely distinguished what he said. I thought it something like: 'Column forward; guide right. Charge!' Every boy was too frightened to answer.

"Some one is keeping him nights," added the colonel. "Whoever is doing it shall be put in the—I mean deserves to be punished." Again there was silence, ended by a little trembling voice. It was Ned's.

"I'm the one who has been keeping Shep," he said. "I have looked him in, and he has come up and slept on my bed."

"You looked him in! Don't you know that he is not your dog?" "Yes, sir, I knew that."

"Well, don't you ever do such a thing again. I want my dog in the house nights. Eight o'clock is tips for him—8 o'clock precisely, not five minutes after 8 or five minutes before 8, but 8. As a punishment you," addressing Ned, "are forbidden to have anything to do with Shep in future. Do you understand?"

"Yes, sir," came a faint tremolo. "The old man kept the dog?"

"Because I love him and he loves me."

The colonel stood a moment looking at the boy, something evidently dawning on his bachelor brain. Then he turned away.

The next morning he sent the dog to Ned to have and to hold as his property forever.

THE MIRAGE.

Conditions That Make Possible This
Beautiful Illusion.

About that natural phenomenon, the
mirage, much mystery clings in days
of old, but science explains it as readily as the rainbow.

The fata morgana of the strait of Messina and the specter of the Brock-
en were nothing more in sober reality
than mere mirage.

A mirage may occur at any place
where the denser stratum of air is
placed above the lighter stratum, thus
refracting the rays of light, the common surface of the two strata acting
as a mirror.

In looming mirages distant objects
show an extravagant increase in vertical height without alteration in breadth. Distant summits of ice are
thus magnified into immense towers
and pinnacles, and a ship is sometimes
abnormally drawn out until it appears
twelve or thirteen times as high as it
is long. Rocks are seen drawn up to
ten or twelve times their proper
height. Houses as well as human beings and animals appear in like exaggerated shape.

Another form of mirage is when a
ship or some other object near the
water seems greatly elongated and a second identical image is seen
above.

Sometimes the proper image of the
object is elevated far above the sea,
while the second image strangely ap-
pears inverted beneath it, the whole
surrounded by a sheet of sky which is
mirrored and repeated within it.

In 1882 in the arctic region Captain
Swasey recognized by his inverted
image in the air his father's ship, the
Fame, which afterward proved to be
seventeen miles beyond the visible horizon of his observation.

One August evening in 1806 Dr.
Vince saw from Ramsgate, at which
place only the tops of Dover castle
towers are usually visible, the whole
of the castle. It appeared as though
lifted up and bodily placed on the near
side of the intervening hill. So perfect was this illusion that the hill it-
self actually could not be seen through
the figure.

Some forms of mirage are lateral as
well as vertical, arising from unequal
density of two contiguous vertical bodies of air. Thus on Lake Geneva a
boat has been seen double, the two
images some distance apart.

Persons have been duped in the same way. Any one on a hot day by
placing his eye near to a heated wall
may see lateral mirages of objects at
a distance and nearly on a line with
the wall.

Mirages are very frequent on des-
erts or the large sandy plains which
abound in the southwestern states and territories. Many a panting wagon train has pushed on in joyous haste
at the sight of a green grove or limpid
lake, only to be cruelly disappointed at
the fading away of the vision. Is it
any wonder that the natives and Indians regard the phenomenon as the
work of evil and tantalizing spirits?

Lake Ontario is famous for beautiful and wonderful mirages, during
which the opposite shore of the lake
is plainly visible from either side.—
Pearson's.

Court Dwarfs.

Until about little more than a century ago dwarfs were frequently kept
as court toys. Records of them might
be multiplied almost indefinitely.

Bebe, the dwarf of Stanislaus, king
of Poland, lived to be ninety years of
age, dying in Paris in 1858, and is va-
riously described as having measured
thirty-five inches and twenty-three
inches. Julia, niece of Augustus, had
two dwarfs, each twenty-eight inches
in height, and Henrietta Maria had
two whose joint height was seven feet
two inches. The Emperor Augustus had a dwarf named Lucius whose
height was two feet and weight seventeen pounds. The last court dwarf
in England was Coppern, who belonged to the Princess of Wales, mother of George III.

An Isle of Man Oath.

What is regarded as the qualitest
oath still in use is that taken by the
high court judges in the Isle of Man,
the terms of which are as follows: "By
this book and the contents thereof
and by the wonderful works that God
hath miraculously wrought in the
heaven above and the earth beneath in
six days and six nights I do swear
that I will, without respect of favor
or friendship, loss or gain, consanguin-
ity or affinity, envy or malice, execute
the laws of this isle justly between
party and party as indifferently as the
herring backbone doth lie in the midst
of the fish. So help me God and the
contents of this book."

Selfishness.

Jones worked so hard and denied
himself so much in order to pay his
life insurance that he had neither the
time nor the means to be sick, and he
outlived all the beneficiaries, who were
meanwhile engaged in the relatively
unhealthy business of lying back and
waiting for him to die. Moreover, in
thinking of the matter he became convinced that he had a good deal of fun,
after all—more fun, indeed, than most.
"I'm a terribly selfish fellow," ex-
claimed Jones guiltily.—Puck.

Politely Bounced.

A good example of the extremely
courteous in public correspondence
was the notice sent to Charles Jones
Fox that he was no longer a member
of the government of George III. It
read thus: "His gracious majesty has
been pleased to issue a new commission in which your name does not
appear."

To cast away a good friend is like
casting away one's life.—Aristotle

PREPARING FOR HEARING

Appeal in Old Williamsport Bridge Matter Will Be Heard

The county commissioners and Chief
Clerk H. R. Campbell of Washington
were in Pittsburg yesterday in conference with the commissioners of Allegheny county relative to the suit
that comes up in Butler county next
week, the appeal from the award of
viewers in the condemnation proceedings of the old Williamsport bridge
at Monongahela. Both the Williams-
port Bridge company and the two
counties are appellants. The case
was transferred to a disinterested
county. The viewers awarded the
bridge company $125,000, but the
bridge today is not worth anything to
either county. It was condemned by
the government after being taken over
by the counties, ordered removed and
considering what it will cost to re-
move the structure, the old bridge is
practically worth nothing to either
Washington or Allegheny county.

The new bridge to take the place of
the old Williamsport bridge is now in
course of erection at Monongahela.

Should the award of the viewers be
sustained, or the bridge company
secure a verdict, it will have to be
paid by Washington and Allegheny
counties equally. Although it is the
intention to tear down the old bridge
within a few months, there have been
rumors of a probable injunction proceeding to restrain the counties from
tearing down the old bridge, and in
that event Monongahela will have two
river bridges.

The new bridge is farther down the
river and there is opposition to the
removal of the old bridge. It will
mean a depreciation in the value of
certain properties at the ends of the
old bridge on either side of the river.

In the Presence of Death.

Some years ago a Swansea vessel
was caught in a terrible gale, says an English paper. The captain had his
wife on board, and when the wind was
still rising he told her to go down be-
low and sleep, for all was well. He remained on the bridge till the mate
came up and said: "We're done all we
can. Hadn't you better tell the chaps
to get out the boats?"

"Yes, yes, my lad, if you think so,"
said the captain, who knew the only
choice left was whether to go down
with the ship or in a small boat, which
couldn't live ten seconds in that sea.
The engineers came up with the news
that the fires were all out.

"Very well, my lads," said the captain quietly. "Save yourselves if you
can."

"Won't you fetch the wife on deck,
sir?" asked one of the men.

"No," was the calm reply. "Let her
sleep, poor girl! I am going down to
have a smoke." And, snuking by the
bedside of his sleeping wife, he went
down with the ship.

A Quiser Dish.

A great dish at Egyptian harem
feasts is that of a lamb roasted whole.
After the manner of a nest of Chinese
boxes, each smaller than the other, the
lamb is stuffed with a whole turkey,
the turkey with a chicken, the chicken
with a pigeon, the pigeon with a quail
and the quail with a becanico, the
smallest bird known, except a Humming bird. The lamb is roasted over
a slow fire until it is almost ready to
fall to pieces.

CLEVER CLOTHES

Some tailors would be happy if they could make clothes half so good.

But they would charge twice as much. More ginger and style and quality than you expect and at a LOWER PRICE, too.

CLEVER CLOTHES are in favor with men and large boys.
It is easy to select a style suited
to your individual type—and without lavish expenditure. Modestly priced at

$18.00, $20.00, $22.50, $25.00.

Other Suits at $10.00, $12.00,
$13.50, $15.00 and $16.50.

AN INTERESTING SERMON

Rev. Giles at M. E. Church Pleases All Who Hear Him.

In spite of the rain a large audience
at the M. E. church last night listened
to a strong sermon by Rev. Giles on
"The Mighty Savior." The sermon
was a vivid presentation of Christ as
a mighty Savior from sin, and the
only one who can help us get away
from an evil past.

He spoke of sin as an awful fact in
all our lives, a fact that we cannot
deny.

He said: "We are not sinners
because Adam sinned, but because we
have ourselves chosen the same path.
Jesus can save the vilest soul on earth
if that soul will but come and give
him a chance."

After calling attention to the many
young men loafing on the streets and
describing his own conversion when a
young man, he pleaded with the young
men present to give their lives to God
that they might enjoy the largest
possible amount of happiness and be
of the largest service to the world.

The sermon closed with a very realistic word picture of the coming of
death to the unsaved man and to the
one who has found Christ as his Savior.

A large number of persons came to
the altar when the usual invitation
was given, some to pray for others
and some to pray for themselves.

PUBLIC URGED TO HELP

Efforts to Raise Funds For Char- leroi Baseball Team is Not Without Effect.

The Charleroi Athletic Association
will have a good ball team in the field
this season. They have in Manager
Frank MacHale one of the best baseball managers in the country. The
association will make an effort to have
a fine team this year for the benefit
of the public in Charleroi and surrounding towns. The many Ameri-
can sport is enjoyed by everyone and
should be encouraged by the citizens
of Charleroi. The association is in
need of some help from the public.
The Marathon race will no doubt net
some returns from the admission, that
will be charged to see the race on the Ball Park grounds.

The Buick motor car tickets will be
pushed, and if they are all disposed
of will clear up the debt of the association, which will insure a team for
the next two or three years. The Buick motor car is a $1,250.22 horse
power car that will seat five persons,
and run at least 40 miles per hour.
It is one of the wonders of the age in
the motor car line. By calling at the
auto garage of A. D. Spencer, corner
of McKean avenue and Third street,
Charleroi, you will be shown the car
or one like it. Will the public be come interested?
